COLONEL OPIE WANTS HEARING ON CHARGES

Ex-Major Claims Charges Before Senate Committee Are Unfounded

ACCUSED BY LUNATIC

Former World War Officer Asks to be Given a Fair Hearing—Many Witnesses Named.

Staunton, Dec 30.—Declaring that "my reputation is more valuable than life, and that it is my right as an American citizen that these charges be proved or that I be vindicated," Col. H. L. Opie, of this city last night dispatched a letter to F. B. Brandegee, chairman of the special committee investigating charges made by Senator Watson that American soldiers were executed in France without trial.

Colonel Opie, during the world war a major in the 116th infantry, was charged before the committee recently with having shot two soldiers while in the performance of their duty. Colonel Opies letter to Senator Brandegee last night follows:

Hon. F. B. Brandegee, Chairman Special Investigating Committee,
United States Senate Chamber,
Washington, D. C.

Dear Sir—

It is a fearful commentary on justice in this country that I, a former army officer, and now an unoffending private citizen, who has served long and honorably in the armed services of his country, should have his name dragged in the mire daily through the mouthings of diseased minds and deserters at the hands of Senator Watson. It can be readily shown that the men who have brought these charges against me are mentally diseased or deserters and that there is no foundation for their statements, except imagination. One of them I am informed is in the state lunatic asylum at Marion, Va. In action I commanded a battalion I was almost continually with members of my staff or headquarters group and my every move can be accounted for by responsible officers and men with fighting records. I have scores of letters and telegrams from these and other comrades placing their services at my disposal. If it had been necessary to shoot men as charged or otherwise in the exigencies of battle, these soldiers would know it, and I would not deny it. My record in the service of my government is an honorable one; my reputation more valuable than life. As a result of service rendered I am charged before a high committee of my government with serious offenses. It is my right as an American citizen that these charges be proved or that I be vindicated. Without having consulted with any of the persons named as to the testimony they will give, but having confidence in their truth and fairness and their own records of service, I ask that the following officers and men be summoned to give evidence before your committee:

General Joe Lane Stern, Richmond, Va., for character and general reputation; United States Senator Carter Glass, Lynchburg, Va., for character and general reputation; Hon. Joseph A. Glasgow, Staunton, for character and general reputation; Major R. H. Kelley, U. S. A., Fort Leavenworth, Kansas, formerly colonel 116th infantry; Lieutenant Colonel John A. Cutchins, Mutual Building, Richmond, Va., formerly chief of intelligence 29th division; Major G. M. Alexander, Lynchburg, Va., formerly major 116th infantry; Captain A. D. Barksdale, Lynchburg, Va., formerly company and battalion commander 116th infantry; Major A. L. Burnham, Lynchburg, formerly major 116th infantry; Captain Ewart Johnston, Winchester, Va., formerly of 116th infantry; A. H. Stone, Fredericksburg, Va., formerly first lieutenant 116th infantry; Captain Beverly C. Wilkes. Ninth St., Richmond, Va., formerly my battalion adjutant; Captain Charles P. Serrett, Staunton, Va., formerly commanding Company M, 116th infantry; Dr. Frederick Vosburgh, 82 Midland avenue, Garfield, N. J., an army surgeon one who was with me until we were both wounded in the same fight; Major Reese T. Crubert, Staunton, Va., machine gun officer of the 29th division; Sergeant C. C. Johnson, Hilus, Va., battalion N. C. O., staff; Major F. H. Bondurant, Norfolk, Va, formerly machine gun captain on my staff; Russel Fifer, Staunton, Va., formerly with my sanitary detachment; Sergeant Charles Bryan, Staunton, Va., machine gunner; Mr. Jack Owen, Care Owen and Barker, Lynchburg, Va., formerly Sergts. Co. L., 116th infantry; S. D. Morrissett, Lynchburg, Va., formerly first sergeant of Co. L, 116th infantry; Captain Joseph P. Ast, Staunton, Va., formerly machine gun officer, 116th infantry; Curtis L. Richmond, Norton, Va., formerly sergeant, Co. K, 116th infantry; Charles P. Cox, Lynchburg, Va., my sergeant in charge of communications.

Nearly all of these soldiers have written or wired me voluntarily that they will testify for me. I believe the whole fighting roster of the regiment will do likewise Since it seems that I am being tried in the papers, I am giving this to the press.

Very respectfully,
H. L. Opie.

WASHINGTON DAY BY DAY

(From our Special Correspondent.)

Washington, Dec. 30.—Alexandria housewifes will no doubt be interested if not somewhat surprised to learn that after a sewing machine shuttle has "shuttled" its way from the hands of the manufacturer to the hands of the retailer its cost has jumped from 17 cents which the manufacturer paid to produce it, to one dollar, which the housewife paid to get it.

This was one of the trade secrets incorporated in the records of the Senate Finance Committee as the result of testimony given at the committee's tariff hearing.

"The consumer can thank God it doesn't shuttle through any more hands," commented Senator McCumber, of North Dakota.

Here is another secret laid before the commitee:

The fancy, leather-covered family Bible, with red under gold edges that the bookseller offers at $5 or more, costs him $1.45 at wholesale. And one would hardly believe that the Bible would be used as a source of profiteering.

Failure of the Conference on Limitation of Armaments to reach an agreement on limitation of submarines and of auxiliary craft and its failure to act on the Root resolutions regarding submarine warfare will make unnecessary the conference of all European naval powers suggested by the President sometime ago, it was said today at the State Department.

It was pointed out there would be nothing for such a conference to consider, inasmuch as none of them is interested in the capital ship issue and inasmuch as there would be no proposal to submit to them on submarines or auxiliary craft.

The President's idea of asking the European powers to ratify the agreements of this conference was based on the assumption that an agreement would be reached on submarines and auxiliary craft, in which subjects many nations not represented in the conference are interested. France's refusal to consider limitation of submarine armaments has, therefore not only prevented an agreement among the five great powers but has made impossible an agreement among the smaller nations whereby they could have greatly restricted their armaments, it was said here today.

A bunch of Secret Service men, who have been assigned to the delegates to the arms conference, was waiting in the corridor of the Pan-American Building for the meeting of the naval armaments committee to break up today. They were talking a little bit too loud, and were warned that their voices were ascending to the outer parts of the Columbus Room where the delegates were in session.

"Think they had better chlorform these gold fish to keep them from making any noise," suggested one of the men, as he pointed to the fish swimming around in the fountain erected in the Patois of the building.

The British delegation is still anxious to discuss the submarine question in an open session of the arms conference and has again requested Secretary of State Hughes to consider calling such a session. Mr. Hughes has made no definite reply to the British request but the information in British circles is that he has given them to understand that their request will be granted before the conference adjourns. The purpose of the open session, from the British standpoint, will be to lay before the whole world the British attitude toward the submarine as a moral and material menace to the peace of the world.

Confirmation is obtained here today in official sources of the plan for an exchange of notes between the United States and Japan to make clear that the homeland of Japan is not included within the scope of the four Power Pacific Treaty. These notes will be exchanged, it is learned, prior to th submission of the treaty to the Senate and the text of the notes will be sent to the Senate as a matter of information on the treaty.

Great Britain and France will not be included in the exchange of notes, but both governments have given their official approval of the plan which means that they now recognize that the four Power Treaty does not include within its scope the homeland of Japan. It was made clear in American official sources that the proposal for an exchange of notes did not come from the American, but from the Japanese government.

NEW PREMIER OF CANADA WANTS NATIONAL UNITY

King of England Says All Provinces Should Be Represented in Ministry

TWO POSTS DROPPED

All Armed Forces of the Dominion of Canada Are Combined Under One Head.

Ottawa, Dec. 30.—National unity, through having all parts of the dominion represented in his Cabinet, last night was declared by Premier William Lyon Mackenzie King to be the principal aim of his administration, which yesterday took over the reins of government from Arthur Meighen, retiring Premier.

He declared that this end would be served and the federal spirit of the Constitution most acceptably recognized by according representation in the Cabinet, "so far as that might be possible, to all the provinces of Canada." This, he added, had been done with regard to the number of constituencies in each province and group of associated provinces.

After explaining that two former Cabinet posts had been eliminated from his Cabinet, Premier King announced that the Departments of Militia, Naval Service, Air Force and Mounted Police had been combined into one department, that of National Defense.

"In those parts of Canada where Liberal thought and opinion is divided," he continued, "though equally opposed to the reactionary character and policies of the late administration, have left that national unity would be further promoted and confidence and good will between all parts and classes augmented, were opportunity of representation in the new Liberal administration afforded individuals enjoying the confidence of a considerable portion of the Canadian electorate."

By such appointments, he continued, he hoped to prevent men of national distinction from "experiencing a feeling of isolation as respects the formation and administration of national policies."

"As a means of affording to members of the House of Commons, opportunity of becoming more intimately acquainted with the business of the different departments of the Government, and of qualifying for promotion to higher positions, early consideration will be given by the new administration to the desirability of appointing, in an honorary capacity from among members of the House of Commons, Parliamentary under-secretaries to assist the Ministers during the Parliamentary sessions, Charles Etewart to be Acting Minister of

INSURANCE FOR ALL RAILROAD EMPLOYEES

Erie Railroad Initiates New Cheap Insurance Plan For Its Workers

THREE CENTS A DAY

Policies of $3,000 Issued to Men at Cheapest Possible Rate — Other Roads Expected to Follow Example

New York, Dec. 30.—Two of the most comprehensive and liberal group insurance plans ever arranged by corporations in behalf of employees were announced today, to take effect at the start of the New Year. The Erie railroad will insure 30,000 men, fixing the maximum policy at $3,000 and for this charging the employees three cents a day. The Delaware and Hudson Co., will insure its men, without cost to them for $500, and will permit them to take up to $5,000 insurance at comparatively small cost.

The Erie insurance is divided between the Aetna Life and the Metropolitan Life, each company carrying insurance on, in round numbers, 15,000. The total amount of insurance involved will be about $40,000,000.

The benefit will apply to those eligible employees who have had two years or more service prior to midnight December 31, 1921, when the contract goes into effect. No medical examination is required and each employee will name his own beneficiary. Any employee who is permanently and totally disabled before reaching the age of 60 will receive the face value of his insurance certificate, payable under one of several methods. The plan covers virtually all men employed by the road.

For the first month the road will pay the total cost of the insurance. After February 1 the employees will contribute toward the cost. Their payments will vary, according to their age, from 1 cent a day per $1,000 of insurance to 2 cents a day per $1 000 of insurance. The maximum amount of insurance for any employee is to be $3,000. It is planned for each employee to have insurance equal to the amount of his annual pay, but not above $3,000. When earnings are not fixed the amount of insurance will be the average of the yearly earnings.

Each Delaware and Hudson employee of two years' standing was insured for $500 and those in the service six months, but less than two years, for $250, the company to pay the entire cost and the men to select their own beneficiaries.

At death the insurance will be paid in a lump sum and to permanently or totally disabled workers in monthly installments.

A plan by which the workers banded in class groups could increase the amount to a maximum of $5,000 each, the company to pay part of the additional premium and the men the remainder, was also announced.

In addition the company said it had arranged for the workers to take out "at exceedingly low rates" insurance against accidents not covered by the workmen's compensation laws, loss of work through sickness and also unemployment.

No medical examination is to be required. Employees leaving the service for any reason can exchange their certificates without medical examination for policies of the same amounts, paying the regular rates for their ages at the time of substitution.

Groups of employees, consisting of not less than three-fourths of those in any one class, who desire insurance above $500 must apply for it before March 31 next. For each additional $1,000 the insured employee must pay 60 cents a month, the company paying the premium in excess of this amount.

Sickness insurance and accident insurance are to be borne entirely by the policyholder applying for it, the insurance to be paid beneficiaries for six months at $15 a week, the sickness premium being $1.25 a month and accident insurance at 24 cents a month.

VIRGINIA NEWS PARAGRAPHED

Fredericksburg.—The two children of Roger D. Eastlake, who was recently acquitted of the charge of the murder of his wife at Colonial Beach on September 30, have been delivered to Mrs. Donald Eastlake, of Philadelphia, by T. Watt Mayo, commonwealth's attorney for Westmoreland county, in whose custody the children had been since the beginning of the trial. The children, Margaret, aged 5, and Roger 9, were given over willingly by Mr. Mayo in contradiction to reports that there would be a hotly contested legal battle for the possession of the children, following Eastlake's acquittal.

Norfolk.—E. W. Glines, J. P. Francis, seamen, and Hugh Duffy, printer, were held for federal grand jury today, after a hearing before Commissioner Percy S. Stephenson, on a charge of violating the Harrison narcotic act. Bond was fixed at $2,500 in each case. Following testimony of officers who arrested the three last night in connection with possession of three ounces of morphine, Glines volunteered the information that the officers were correct in their charges.

Fredericksburg—A daring robbery occurred here Saturday afternoon when a burglar mysteriously effected an entrance to the residence of G. Frank Timberlake and ransacked the house from top to bottom. Two valuable diamond rings and some articles of ladies' wearing apparel is all that is missing. How an entrance was gained to the house is a mystery. Mrs. Timberlake had carefully locked the residence before going out for the afternoon and on returning found the front door locked as usual. All other doors and windows were locked and could only have been opened from the inside. It is believed that the criminal entered th house earlier in the afternoon and hid in the cellar until all members of the family went out.

Court Orders Wedding

Colored Couple Diected to Marry by Tomorrow Night

A colored man and woman who had been living in the same house yesterday had a quarrel. It culminated in a separation and this in rapid succession was followed by the arrest of both parties by Policemen Durrer and Cline. It happened that the articles of furniture were divided and a matress was being burned by the man, which was part of his allotment of the furniture of the house both had occupied.

The man said they had intended to marry January 6. The woman expressed a readiness for the ceremony if the man was agreeable to the proposition. Both parties being satisfied to join in wedlock Justice Snow directed that wedding bells ring by tomorrow night and both left court promising to become man and wife.

Christmas Cantata

A very attractive Christmas cantata "The Light of the World," was given at the First Baptist Church last evening, before a capacity audience. Santa Claus was introduced and played his part well. Six Shepherds came to the platform. Ten girls in oriental costume appeared and sung to a star. The wise men are in evidence. The screen is withdrawn showing Manger, Mary and Joseph. The recitations were effective, especially that by Miss Marie St. Clair. The pastor, Dr. Jackson, made a short address. A number of presents were given, together with candy for all. Several gifts were made with speeches, among them to Superintendent Mr. Pitts and to the teacher of the Baracas, Mr. Williamson. The pastor, Rev. Dr. Jackson, was handsomely remembered. The offering was for the Near East Relief. Those who were behind the entertainment deserve credit.

It was the custom of the congregation to repeat the Twenty-third Psalm in concert and Mrs. Armstrong's habit was to keep about a dozen words ahead all the way through. A stranger was asking one day about Mrs. Armstrong. "Who," he inquired, "was the lady who was already by the still waters while the rest of us were lying down in green pastures?"—Metropolitan.

PRINCIPLE OF CURB ON SUBS IS FAVORED

Resolution Providing for Search and Rescue of Merchantmen

TO DEBAR SINKING

Italy Expresses Fear of France and Hints at an Alliance With England.

Washington Dec. 30.—Accepting the failure yesterday to reduce and limit submarine tonnage according to their varying viewpoints some cheerfully some regretfully and some fearfully the delegates to the Conference started to work again yesterday, with these facts standing out:

1—Agreement in principle to the Root resolution restating the rule of international law that before a submarine may sink a merchant ship there must be visit and search and committee has been named to redraft rescue of crew and passengers A committee has been named to redraft the resolution.

2.—Attention to the Root resolution debarring submarines from sinking merchant ships, with an amendment from the British to put the rule into force at once as between the five naval powers in this Conference. The British expect adoption and hold that adoption will regain much of the ground lost yesterday.

3.—Expressions of fear from the Italians that France is embarked upon a plan to dominate the Continent, and intimations that if that turns out to be he case, Italy may seek an entente with England to protect herself. Also regret from the Italians that the French may compel them to expend large sums on naval constructions.

4—Calls for a boycott of Japanese goods issued to the Chinese people by representatives here in Washington of various Chinese business and workers' organizations, who hold that Japan has barred effectually important action by the Conference for the relief of China, and that China must act on her own behalf.

5—Renewal of reports that the State Department and the Japanese Ambassador are negotiating upon a proposal for an exchange of notes exempting the Japanese homeland from the four-power treaty, and fresh reports from the Senate indicating that as the treaty stands the opposition is formidable and growing.

The British expectation that the resolution barring submarines from attacking merchant ships will be adopted was so strong and the British spokesmen were so enthusiastic over it last night that the subject lent new cheer to the Conference. Reports from the French indicated that they will go along on the proposal, thus sidetracking opposition which many have come to expect to almost everything. There is a very genuine belief among the British and some others that the resolution will repair much of the damage done yesterday.

They have held, and sincerely believe, that the submarine is an inefficient weapon against modern warships or against military transports properly convoyed. If, now, the Conference will adopt a resolution in agree not to use the submarine against which the nations represented will merchantmen and will invite other nations to adhere to that resolution the ment will be put on the way to virtual elimination.

One of the principal British spokesmen was asked last night whether the statement that adoption of the resolution would "regain much of the ground lost" meant that, should the submarine be outlawed as against ships of commerce, the British would not go on with their announced plan to build adequate anti-submarine craft if other nations build submarines.

He replied very definitely that it did not mean that. If other nations begin building submarines—and it is to be remembered that authoritative British representatives have insisted repeatedly that the French do not intend to build a great fleet of submarines—this British spokesman says the British Empire undoubtedly will build heavily in anti-submarine craft. It will take no chances. And thus, for some years in any event, French submarine building will mean British building in opposition, and the economic benefits of capital-ship reduction will be lessened if not destroyed.

But, this British spokesman also strongly insisted, there would be great moral and humanitarian gain by the adoption of the resolution against submarine attacks on merchant ships, even though there were no immediate economic gains. Practical elimination of the submarine as an effective weapon, even though it still be maintained in the navies of the world, would go far toward giving reassurances to the peoples of nations that might be suspicious of sudden attacks.

And, the British think, should another war come in which the navies would play important parts, such restrictions upon the use of the submarines would immeasurably lessen the horrors of war and the hatreds that are aroused and that lives long after

THE MEDICAL DEPARTMENT OF THE UNIVERSITY OF VIRGINIA

We are in receipt of a neatly printed brochure entitled "Shall the Medical Department of the University of Virginia be Abandoned and Removed to Richmond," containing the record in the case and a discussion of the reports of the Commission on Medical Education in Virginia. We are of the opinion, after a reading of its pages that the great preponderance of testimony is decidedly in favor of the retention of this most important branch of education by the University. The economic reasons, the educational reasons, the reasons of custom and precedent, the financial reasons, are all overwhelmingly in favor of the university. We believe that the great mass of public opinion in the state is likewise in favor of the retention of the medical school at the university. Certainly the most enlightened opinion points that way. But aside from what might be called the grosser reasons of expediency there is a far higher argument forbidding the proposed divorce of the medical department from the venerable institution which today adds no little to the fame and good name of the state. This is eloquently expressed by one of the university's most distinguished sons, John Bassett Moore, who says, speaking of his beloved Alma Mater: "There are those who love her! This sentiment of deep attachment is characteristic of the alumni of the University of Virginia. In useful demonstration of their loyalty they will never be found wanting. They will relax their efforts only when compelled to believe that their exertions are probably futile, because the legal preservation of the object of their sacrifices and benefactions is uncertain and insecure. It rests with the General Assembly of Virginia, wielding, as the University's legal guardian, the power of life and death, to lift this pall by rejecting the present proposal with such emphasis as to convince not only the Alumni but the entire American people that the unity of the University, which is its life, is forever secure."

WAR IN ITS TRUE GUISE

Several hundred years back, when knighthood was in flower, the armies of England and France met on a certain plain where the lilies and the poppies waved and intermingled their white and crimson banners. A knight of France, advancing toward the English host, doffed his plumed helmet, and courteously exclaimed: "Messieurs, will it please you to fire first?" The English, not to be outdone in this chivalric performance, cheered the herald, and awaited his safe return to the French lines. Then the battle began and English brawn and beef won the day.

So much for fine breeding and finer valor! In the twentieth century German courtesy greets the opposing enemy with a new poison-gas that winds and twists and writhes in gigantic coils of death-dealing vapor, spreading agony and destruction among shocked and unsuspecting thousands.

The French episode is of the day when war was pastime; when to hunt and slay men was just a little more thrilling and exciting than the pleasures of the chase. Modern methods, however, have done away with the false glamor of chivalry. War is now discerned in its literal significance as plain hell. It is reduced to a simple question of chemistry and factory-smoke. It has become commercialized. The nobler and more heroic elements in human nature that primitive warfare educed and developed, such as physical and moral courage, self-sacrifice, charity and good will towards a fallen foe and generosity towards a fighting one, discipline of character through suffering, and others of the finest human traits—these have been mercilessly eradicated. With the disappearance of these virtues vanishes all the pretext that war ever had in its favor. The peoples have awakened to this fact. It now only remains for those who are their servants—no longer their masters—to obey their will. With the evanishment of warfare will come the final abolition of kings and nobles and a hereditary aristocracy—governments will be, as they all should be and as ours is—of, by, and for the people.

POLICIES OUTLINED

Nashville, Tenn., Dec. 30.—Declaring that "the time has come when patriotic citizens and Democrats should indulge in plain talking," Judge Cordell Hull, chairman of the Democratic national committee, in his first public address since election to that position, tonight reviewed the Republican administration of national affairs since March, 1921, and contrasted this with the "unparalleled achievement" of the Democrats in the previous eight years.

The address was delivered at a dinner given by the state Democratic executive committee in honor of Chairman Hull, and attended by party leaders from every part of the state. It was accepted generally as the opening of the congressional pre-election campaign by the new chairman, who went into the public questions which, he said, now faced the government, and explained the attitude which his party would take on them.

Will Convert War Plant

Paris, Dec. 30.—The Allied Council of Ambassadors has decided to place in the hands of General Nolle, head of the disarmament commission, the task of converting the Deutsche Werke, the group of plants used during the war for manufacturing German armaments, into workshops for the manufacture of industrial machinery.

The plan of conversion will call for the employment of 20,000 workers who were employed in the manufacture of war material.

Attack on Newspapers in Senate Body Refuted

Washington Dec. 30.—Senate tariff hearings were enlivened today by an attack on American newspaper publishers by Col. William E. Haskell, of New York city, vice president of the International Paper company, and a counter-attack on the newsprint paper manufacturers by William J. Pape, publisher of the Waterbury (Conn.) Republican.

Urging a tariff protection for his industry against European competition, Colonel Haskell told the committee that "Congress has gradually yielded to the clamors of the paid agents of the publishers" until finally all tariff on newsprint had been removed and "the industry abandoned to drift in the ebb and flow of the international competitive tide."

The charge that any "undue influence" had been used by the publishers in arguing for the placing of newsprint paper on the free list was denied by Emory Thomason, of Chicago, speaking for the American Newspaper Publishers' Association. He declared the publishers had based their argument on the economic ground of the inability of American newsprint manufacturers to supply domestic consumption. This inability was stated by Colonel Haskell.

Publishers, who, as a class, largely dominate public opinion affecting business policies through direct appeal to readers, Mr. Pape added, "have been potently weak when fighting for a fair price for newsprint." He declared that on no less than three occasions in the last ten years prices had "soared to undreamed of heights," and that nothing, including the federal trade commission, congressional and court action had "stayed the demands imposed by certain of those who control the supply of newsprint."

The removal from the tariff free list of agricultural implements, bismuth, cadium, sulphate of arsenic, Bibles cash registers and sewing machines was asked by the various interests.

Shoe manufacturers appearing today before the senate finance committee were given to understand by Acting Chairman McCumber that hides would not be on the free list when the permanent tariff bill is reported to the senate.

Charles E. Jones, of Whitman, Mass., representing the National Boot and Shoe Manufacturers' Association of the United States, declared that the result of a duty on hides would be to place control of the shoe industry into the hands of the big meat packers, without any benefit being derived by the cattle raisers. Senators apparently did not agree with this conclusion.

Through John S. Kent, of Brockton, Mass., the Manufacturers' Association asked for a 15 per cent. duty on shoes and boots, declaring that this was necessary to equalize difference in labor costs in the United States and foreign countries. Mr. Jones, who followed Mr. Kent and who was assigned to present the argument in favor of free hides, declared that as a matter of fact a majority of the manufacturers did not want a duty on shoes.

Mr. Jones said the American manufacturers made shoes as cheaply and as well as those of other countries despite the higher wage costs here, and that they had dealt fairly. A similar statement was made by Mr. Kent, who, when asked who was to blame for shoes costing $15 retail, replied, "the purchaser." He explained that good shoes could be had for $8, $9 or $10. This led to a discussion of costs, and Mr. Kent said the shoe retailing for $9 was sold by the manufacturer for $6.

The exclamation, "don't care a fig," has nothing whatever to do with figs. This saying, or at least the word "fig," comes from the Italian word "fico," which means a snap of the finger.

FACES NEW CHARGES

Norfolk, Va., Dec. 30.—Mutt and Jeff laid aside their differences long enough to combine their efforts in furthering the ends of justice.

Their efforts resulted in the identification of "Lieut. Harry Eades, U. S. N.," as he is known in Norfolk, but William Ellis Newman at his home in Roanoke and as Lieut. Harry Moore Miller when in Philadelphia, according to Department of Justice reports.

Newman was arrested four days ago in Philadelphia for unlawfully wearing a naval officer's uniform. Then he was identified as the "Lieutenant Eades" who aroused interest in Norfolk early in December by his story of a fortune awaiting him should he be married by December 5. His subsequent automobile wedding with Miss Ethel Ast, of this city was something of a sensation. His identity became known when Department of Justice agents noted a resemblance to the Eades description and looked for the tatooed figures of Mutt and Jeff known to be on his legs. No such officer was listed in the Naval Register.

The man will be tried in Philadelphia on the charge of wearing an officer's uniform before being turned over to Indianapolis Officials. He will have to answer a charge of impersonating a Government officer among others there as well as in other Western cities, where he is alleged to have swindled a number of people through use of the uniform He is also wanted in Roanoke for passing a bogus check for $116, officers here have been informed.

Persian women, who, until seventy years ago, were nonentities outside their homes, now enjoy the same privileges as men and are rapidly rising out of their old-time slavery.

The ten million Filipinos and their ancesters have been civilized and Christians for 300 years; the non-Christian population of the islands, according to the recent census, is less than half a million.

When "The Old Nest" comes to the Richmond Theatre on next Wednesday, the people of Alexandria will have a chance to see a picture that has been hailed by critics and reviewers as the most satisfying all-American picture that has yet been produced. The theme, that of a mother who sees her six children leave her on by one, is common to American families. All the poignancy of feeling that these leave takings arouse in real life have been caught on the screen.

Rupert Hughes is the author of this unusual tale of mother love. He has sought to present a cross section of a universal theme as applied to an American family. All the joys and sorrows connected with rising a family have been dramatized. Each of the children grow to manhood or womanhood with his own individual interests, then leaves the old nest to follow the call of his desires. Only their mother is left to her loneliness and her memories. But, as in every American family the young remember the old nest and return to it.

The picture was produced by Goldwyn and was directed by Reginald Barker. Mary Alden plays the old mother, and her performance has been said to be a masterpiece of screen acting.

A. L. I. vs. Manhatten

Tomorrow night at the Armory the fast going A. L. I. basketball five will engage the Manhattan five of Washington. This team has been going at a fast clip this season and in their lineup will be found some of the best basketball tossers of the district. Hutchinson, playing forward for the Washington five, is a stellar goal tosser, having played college basketball for several seasons. Boteler, who plays the center position, is also a clever basketball player, having held down the pivot position for George Washington university last year. The following will be the lineup Saturday night:

A. L. I.	Manhattan
Alexander .. forward ..	Hutchinson
Williams .. ..forward	Young
DeGroote .. .. center	Boteler
T. Hayden.. .. .. guard..	Boyd
Peyton .. .. guard	Cuffreda

A preliminary game will be staged at 7:15 between the Virginia Orioles and the Epiphany A. C., of Washington, both of these teams are a fast bunch of youngsters and a hot bottle is looked for.

On Tuesday of next week the Capital Silents, of Washington, will be entertained at the Armory in what is expected to be a great game from start to finish. The dummies have been playing together for several seasons and they have collected a fast bunch of goal tossers. They have made several visits to this city and have always put up a great game. and judging from the box scores of this season they have a fine basketball team. Plenty of seats and a comfortable and well heated hall. All welcome.

During the coming 1922 athletic year he will be eligible to enter all athletic contests as a member of the student body of Tulane University. He has been offered several flattering contracts to play professional baseball, but has declined them on account of their interfering with his studies.

News of St. Paul's

On Christmas day the offerings for repairs made to the rectory were over $550. On Monday, January 2, Rev. Mr. Hall and his family will welcome their friends at the rectory from 4 to 6 p. m. The next service of Christian Healing will be held in the church, Wednesday, January 11 at 7:45. These services are impressive and spiritually uplifting. The mission hymnal will be used. On Wednesday, January 18, Rev. Samuel McComb, D. D., will hold a conference on prayer. Dr. McComb a native of northern Ireland, has been for several years Canon of the Episcopal Cathedral in Baltimore, specially devoting himself to the psychology of religion and the influence of religion in mental and physical disorders. Before departing to Cambridge, Mass., where he is undertaking a professorship in the Episcopal Theological school, he has consented to come to Alexandria hoping to meet a large number of Christians of all names for a discussion of "the many-sided enterprise of prayer." He has written a good deal on this subject and helped to inaugurate the Emmanuel movement of Christian healing in Boston, 20 years ago.

New Revenue Bill

The New Revenue Act is a source of general disappointment declares the current number of "The Guaranty Survey," issued today by the Guaranty Trust Company of New York.

"The failure of Congress to reduce the surtax rates to a point that the recipients of large incomes would be attracted to industrial investments instead of non-taxable securites," the Survey states," is a serious drawback to business revival. The relation of taxation to business recovery should have been the main consideration in the revision of the tax law, but the new law has signally failed in this respect to grant relief from the heavy burden of taxation which has been borne for the last three years.

"Although the law on the whole is lacking in the reform that should have been forthcoming at this time, it contains a number of constructive provisions. The repeal of the excess profits tax as of January 1, 1922, is particularly important and the relief thus offered to corporations in the future by the elimination of this burdensome and intricate tax should assist in the revival and extension of corporate activities.

"The reduction of the tax on capital gains to a maximum of 12 1-2 per cent, should make possible the development of property now owned by those who are not prepared to extend operations and who hereto fore would not sell because of the high rates of surtax. The broad provisions of the new law with respect to the determination of gain or loss in connection with the exchange of securities in the merger or reorganization of corporations will likewise be conducive to industrial development.

"Several administrative provisions tending to a more equitable reporting of business income are included in the law. A permanent provision is enacted which permits the deduction of a net loss in prior years from the net income of the succeeding or next succeeding year. Another provision of especial importance to business concerns is the amendment which permits the deduciton of a partial write-off of bad debts or a reasonable reserve for bad debts.

"Among other administrative provisions, which are decided improvements over the former Act, may be mentioned the provision which makes it possible for a taxpayer to reach a final agreement with the Government on an assessment, which agreement cannot be re opened either by the Government or by the taxpayer except in cases of fraud, and the provision that only one examination of a taxpayer's books of accounts shall be made for each taxable year except under certain conditions.

"In addition to the changes in the taxes on income, a number of changes have been made in the imposition of miscellaneous taxes, the most important of which is the repeal as of January 1, 1922, of the transportation taxes and many of the so called 'nuisance' taxes.

Lower Express Rates From New England

Atlanta, Ga., Dec. 30.—Through express service between Boston, Mass., and Providence, R. I., and the South via Norfolk, with first class rates averaging fifty cents per 100 pounds less than the all rail rates, has been established by the Southeastern Express Company in connection with the Merchants and Miners Transportation Company.

In speaking of this new rail and water express service, Traffic Manager George H. Kerr, of the Southeastern, said today:

"These reduced rates will give shippers and consignees a substantial saving in their express charges and the service via the rail and water route is equal to or better than the service heretofore available.

"As an illustration, traffic leaving Boston by boat on Saturday evening arrives at Norfolk Monday morning and is forwarded by the Southern Railway, reaching Greensboro early Tuesday morning Charlotte Tuesday noon, and Atlanta Tuesday evening, with corresponding service to all other points served by the Southeastern throughout the South."

Democrats Claim 81 Votes

Washington, Dec. 30.—Democratic leaders who oppose the four-power pact declared this afternoon that 27 of their associates have been rounded up against the agreement. This is one more vote than has been claimed by the most optimistic. The number indicated requires but six additional votes to make disapproval of the new compact certain.

There are at least three Republicans opposed to the treaty—Borah, La Follette and Norris. It is believed Senator Ladd will join them, leaving but two more votes to be acquired, to make the needed aggregate of 38 against.

Principle of Curb of Sub is Favored

war is over. Facing the frequently made point that in case of desperate need nations would violate rules for regulation of the submarines the British reply that the power of world opinion enormous and that should another war come the nations involved would hesitate long before following Germany's example of defiance to the conscience of the world.

The latter is the view of the American delegation too. One of the leaders of that group, talking this afternoon of the pending resolutions, to prohibit submarine attacks on merchantmen, passed from calm discussion into a rather vehement argument that world opinion is a real and living thing, that it grows in force and authority and that conditions of warfare do change Victorious nations no longer kill their prisoners, he said, and it is possible to have nations engaged in any future wars abide by rules that are dictated by the aroused public opinion of the world.

IN MEMORIAM

SIMPSON—In sad but loving remembrance of my dear beloved mother and grandmother, MARY EMMA SIMPSON, who departed this life one year ago today, December 30, 1920.

We may have our sorrows,
Some grief quickly dies away,
But the loss of my dear mother
Grieves my heart from day to day.
God called her, it was His will,
But in our hearts we love her still,
Her memory is as fresh today,
As the hour she passed away.
Sweet and peaceful be her rest
Forget her we can never,
God called her, He knew best,
His will be done forever.

By her daughter, Mamie,
and grandson, Joseph.

IN MEMORIAM

SIMPSON—In sad but loving remembranee of my dear mother, MARY EMMA SIMPSON who departed this life one year ago today, December 30, 1920.

One by one earth's ties are broken,
One by one they pass away,
But we hold a glorious token,
We shall meet some future day.
Home at rest, so sweetly sleeping,
In thy Savior's tender care.
Where there is no pain or sorrow,
None on earth can harm you there
Yet again we hope to meet thee
When the day of life is fled,
Then in Heaven with joy to greet thee,
Where no farewell tears are shed.

By her loving daughter,
Effie.

A Second Suggestion for the Use of Batiks in Decoration.

In my last article I promised to tell you further uses for the popular Batik work. I described a cushion, and to-day I am going to tell you of one of the most simple and attractive light shades that may be fashioned by amateur hands.

A square of Batik, a few bead tassels and all the necessary material is at hand. Over any hanging fixture you may secure a piece of cardboard or any stiff material which is of a circular shape. This may be placed at any height above the light you wish. The square of silk is then cut up one side to the centre and a large enough opening made to allow it to be adjusted to the fixture in the spot decided on. Let it hang over the coardboard and weight the corners with bead or silk tassels and the effect will be the same as that shown in to-day's sketch. The one illustrated was of a flamecolor, shading from light to dark, and when the light shines through it it is indeed charming.

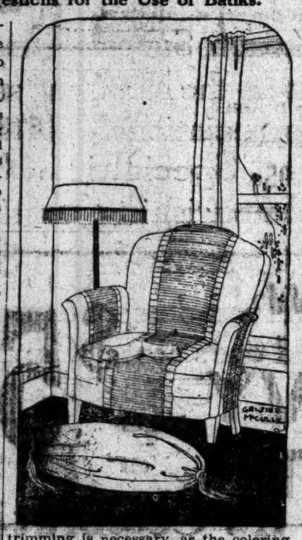
A strip of Batik silk makes a charming table runner, and when one has much gold with flecks of green it is used on a piece of black velvet which is cut exactly the size of the table top the result is truly lovely. The corners of this runner may also be weighted with tassels, and, in fact, will be more satisfactory if so made, as it then will have no tendency to rumple up, but will lie flat on the black velvet.

A Correspondent Asks Suggestions for the Use of Batiks.

A correspondent has written me asking me to suggest a few ways to utilize some of the odd sized Batiks she is so attracted to in the shops, but which puzzle her as to their direct usefulness. I believe many women feel as she does. These vivid bits of coloring attract her, but although she is versed in the laws of good decoration she is not familiar enough with these articles so much in vogue to be able to plan at a glance their correct place in the furnishings of a certain room.

In this and my next article I am going to give you a few suggestions for the use of these delectable colored silks. Possibly you also may have been at a loss just how to make use of them and may glean a practical idea or two from the suggestions.

Cushions make charming Christmas presents, and if you have had one in mind what better idea could be found than a Batik silk one such as that shown in to-day's illustration? It is simplicity itself to make. Many odd lengths will be found in a shop specializing in Batiks, and when you have chosen one of the size and color you wish all that must be done is to seam it together, slip over the cushion and gather into tassels at either end. The one sketched was of a gold color flecked in green, and green and gold tassels were chosen for it. No further trimming is necessary, as the coloring in the material is decoration enough.



Russians Eating Dead, Soviet Congress Told

Riga, Dec. 30.—The first official report of cannibalism in the famine districts of Russia has been made to the All-Russian Soviet congress by Delegate Ovsienko, of Samara, according to a dispatch to the official Rosta News agency dated Moscow.

"At Ramikoveksy the parish people are eating the bodies of their dead," Ovsienko told the congress. "It is dangerous to bury the famine victims in the presence of the people, and guards must be kept over them until they are in a state that makes eating impossible."

Ovsienko said that Dr. Fridtjof Nansen, high commissioner of the international committee of Russian relief, even though a hardened explorer, returned to Moscow sickened by the scenes he witnessed in the stricken districts.

At the beginning of January, continued Ovsienko, the Soviets, with all their outside aid, will be able to feed only half the starving children and only one-twentieth of the adults. The rest of the people would have to die while awaiting help.

TO WED ENGLAND'S RICHEST GIRL.—Lord Louis Mountbaton, aide to the Prince of Wales on his present trip to India, whose engagement has been announced to Miss Edwina Ashley, reputed to be the richest girl in all the British Isles. Her fortune, inherited from her grandfather, Sir Ernest Cassell, is estimated at $160,000,000. Lord Louis is of the Battenberg family which, when the war broke out, changed the family name to Mountbaton.

From Laundry to Studio is Transition Wrought by Fort McHenry Artist

Baltimore, Md., December 30.—Evolving a studio from a stable is an old story in Baltimore, as well as in Macdougal alley, but the transformation of a laundry into one of the most attractive little studios in the city remained for Miss Elizabeth Winn, who has hung out her shingle at 12 West Read street.

Miss Winn's little sanctum is entirely hidden from the casual observer who passes along opposite Emmanuel Church. Past the rectory there is a bit of green, a fountain and a flagged sidewalk. Then, around the corner, the laundry studio. It is a tiny place, not more than ten or twelve feet square, and its scrupulous order immediately puts to rout all preconceived fancies of artistic disorder. Creamy white walls are relieved by orange silk curtains and, tucked away in a corner, is a tea service with china selected to match the curtains in tone.

Tiny carved chests of wood, treated to look like treasure trove of a fifteenth-century Italian princess, stand about, the manufacture of Miss Winn's pupils in occupational therapy. On the other side, on shelves, are the tools and intricate baskets made of willow.

When Miss Winn abandoned her army work at Fort McHenry there was a long search for a suitable location. Rents were high or locations impossible. Then she chanced upon the laundry, which had become a rubbish heap. A frontal attack by scrubwomen restored it to shiny cleanliness and a little furbishing up with paint brush and needle made it quite the jewel of all studios.

Wilson at His 65th Milestone is Silent as to World Events

Wilson rounds out his sixty-fifth year till silently watching international evelopments, as he has since the reat Republican landslide of 1920 ashed his hopes for the treaty of ersailles.

He watches developments through e newspapers, discusses them with is friends—but says nothing and, it ay be stated, has at no time unseled his friends to take one atitude or another toward impending vents. He hopes earnestly for the y when the American people will e their way toward entrance into orld co-operation to keep the peace. t, on this point, he apparently has blicly uttered his last word—at ast for some time.

The former President is represented feeling strongly that he personally ther than the cause he represented. nstituted the main objective of ose who threw down his internaonal work. For that reason he feels at were he to enter into any pubdiscussion of the merits of the esent administration's foreign poly, it would merely divert attention ck to the hatreds developed against m. This, in large measure, explains silence.

Ray Stannard Baker, who acted as personal spokesman at the Paris nference and who long has been a end and great admirer of Wilson's, about to make public a work conting of much data prepared by the esident personally while abroad. nouncement of this already has awn criticism upon Wilson as raisa question whether he has the ht to now publish documents which declined to submit to the Senate ring the treaty fight.

And, while Wilson did not know in vance of the book written by his retary, Joseph P. Tumulty—and to day has never discussed the book h Tumulty, if indeed he has read he did know of the preparation Baker's material. As early as last Wilson turned over to Baker ch of his personal data for comation and, if any document can be d to comprise Wilson's own case ore the people, the contents of the ker work will probably prove to it. Wilson has repeatedly stated t he, personally, would never ite his own history of the peace ference.

Since leaving the White House, the lsons have lived in comparative lusion. Only a few intimate friends him—men like Bernard Baruch, arles R. Crane, Norman Davis, wton D. Baker and, of course, Dr. ry T. Grayson. Mrs. Wilson does attempt anything socially, devotvirtually all of her time to caring her husband.

His health on his sixty-fifth birthy is fairly good. For some reason other it improved noticeably after participation in the Armistice celebration here. His friends atbute it to the evidence of good will wn along the line of march by people at a time when Wilson, h because of the occasion and beuse of long thought over the failof his league of nations, had suffed greatly from depression. His dition today is described as genlly better than at any time since was stricken at the White House he fall of 1919.

Wilkes-Barre, Pa., Dec. 29.—Trapt in the center of a railway bridge nning Nescopeck Creek, Harold llocher and Herman Reisenweaver, h 12 years old, miraculously esed death today when they laid yn between the rails, cuddling so e that the train on the third rail tem of the Wilkes-Barre and Haton railway passed over them. To have jumped thirty feet uld have been equally perilous. Engineer John Comfort saw them king appealingly at him, and Comt, realizing there was but a single nce between the boys and death, pped the window of his car shoutand signaled to the boys to lie down ween the rails. There was no use plying brakes, for the train, travelat great speed could not have n stopped in time to save the lads. Hollocher and Reisenweaver caught signals. They dropped between rails, cuddled as close as they ld to the ties, turning their heads eways, shut their eyes and prayed. mfort, too, closed his eyes as the in flashed over the boys and stopit as quickly as he could. French Stand Unappreciated

Paris, Dec. 29.—"France's renunciation at Washington does not seem to have been sufficiently understood or appreciated at its true worth by her friends, who have reserved to themselves domination of the seas, and perhaps thereby of the world," says the Temps in an editorial commenting on the naval debate in the senate. "She has renounced the past, in which, with England, she was a part of the most glorious sea history of the world, voluntarily lowering herself to a maritime power of the second order.

"France put forward at Washington a claim, which in the minds of her plenipotentiaries, was purely theoretical, demanding that, when she financial condition permitted, she should take a fitting place in the consortium of great naval powers which base sea peace on their armored forces, and she sacrificed the demand in the interests of the peace of the world.

"Can she agree to further sacrifices? The whole country is behind the parliament and the government on this point. She can not abandon the right to defend herself. If some day soon we have to transport once more our Algerian and Moroccan divisions to the Rhine it will be under the protection of our dreadnoughts, light cruisers and submarines."

AUTO DEALER LIABLE IN LENDING LICENSE

Pittsburgh, Dec. 30.—If an automobile dealer allows the use of his dealer's license by some one other than himself he is liable for accidents which may happen while it is being so used, according to an opinion handed down here today by Judge James R. McFarlane.

Sustaining a verdict of $21 750 in favor of Dr. J. B. Reed against Bennett Brothers, employers of the driver of a motor car which seriously injured Dr. Reed, Judge McFarlane pointed out that the employee had bought the car conditionally from his employers and had asked and obtained the loan of the dealers' license plate while testing it. It also was pointd out that the employee had only paid an installment on the purchase price of the car, and Judge McFarlane held that title had not passed to him, as the sale was provisional.

It was stated that the case would be taken to the Supreme Court.

CALOMEL GOOD BUT AWFUL TREACHEROUS

Next Dose May Salivate, Shock Liver or Attack Your Bones

You know what calomel is. It's mercury; quicksilver. Calomel is dangerous. It crashes into sour bile like dynamite, cramping and sickening you. Calomel attack the bones and should never be put into your system.

If you feel bilious, headachy, constipated and all knocked out, just go to your druggist and get a bottle of Dodson's Liver Tone for a few cents which is a harmless vegetable substitute for dangerous calomel. Take a spoonful and it if doesn't start your liver and straighten you up better and quicker than nasty calomel and without making you sick, you just go back and get your money.

Don't take calomel! It makes you sick the next day; it loses you a day's work. Dodson's Liver Tone straightens you right up and you feel great. No salts necessary. Give it to the children because it is perfectly harmless and can not salivate.

Postal Information

Official announcement has been received by Postmaster William M. Smith, of Alexandria, Va., of the joining of hands of the postoffice and treasury departments for the encouragement of the savings movement. The plan, as explained in a statement sent out by Secretary of the Treasury Mellon, provides for the stimulation of the savings habit by the acceptance of postal savings deposits from 10 cents up and the offering of treasury savings securities from $1 to $1,000.

There will be no Thrift Stamps nor War Savings Stamps offered during 1922, but all outstanding Thrift and War Savings Stamps will be redeemable precisely upon the terms upon which they were purchased, it is announced.

For the better coordination of the postal and treasury plans all who invest in postal savings may convert their deposits, when sufficiently large, into treasury savings securities yielding 4 1-2 per cent. interest, compounded semi-annually, if held to maturity.

Further, the limit of individual holdings of treasury savings securities has been increased from $1,000 to $5,000 and the 1921 issues of three of the securities bear the portraits of three great Americans—Roosevelt, Lincoln and Washington.

HERMAN KURTZTISCH,
Milwaukee, Wis.

"When it comes to eating, working and sleeping I'm like a different man from what I was a short time ago," said Herman Kurtztisch, 406 1-2 Norris Place, Milwaukee, with the Northwestern Life Insurance Co., in relating his experience with Tanlac.

"My whole system was about to give way as a result of two years' constant suffering from stomach trouble and I was so run down and worn out I was hardly able to work. I actually dreaded to eat, as after every meal I suffered so terribly from heartburn, and I was so nervous I got little rest day or night.

"If it hadn't been for Tanlac I'm firmly convinced I would have had to resign my place. It came to my aid in the nick of time and I am strong for it. Tanlac was worth at least fifty times what it cost me."

Tanlac is sold in Alexandria by Edgar Warfield, Jr., and leading druggists everywhere.

ALEXANDRIA GAZETTE

THURSDAY, DEC. 30, 1813.

"The age of chivalry is gone!" —Burke.

The late orders, issued by the French governor of Hamburg, revive the barbarity of manners characterising the infidel Saracens, in the dark ages, which gave rise to the holy war.

We advise our French partizans who are so tenderly solicitous for an observance of national regulations, in favor of themselves—who cannot perceive any stretches of power, or savage barbarity, in the cannibal French or their allies—to read these unmanly French orders, and then prattle about French gallantry, and toast the ladies in their eighteenth toast on the 4th of July, if they can.

The orders of this French ruffian are—if four or more men should be found in conversation in the streets that they should be taken out and shot. And if four or more LADIES, should be in like manner assembled, and do not immediately disperse—that they should be publicly whipped with rods, and then to be thrown into prison.

The ladies, under the influence of French partizans, may now shortly expect to realize that the character BLUE BEARD is no fiction—but a melancholy existing fact.

Red Cross Extension

Officials of the Southern division of the American Red Cross are now planning the most extensive campaign of activity yet undertaken by the world's greatest organization for humanitarian service. The extensive nature of this program is made possible by the success of the roll call, concluded on Thanksgiving day.

All reports are not yet in, but the reports that have been received clearly indicate that despite national business depression and the particularly uncertain condition of the South's finances, the people of the South have realized the importance of maintaining the Red Cross organization and its permanent peace time program.

Assurances are given that not only will the present chapter work be maintained throughout the division, but in many instances it will be enlarged. The number of visiting nurses will be maintained, while home service particularly for war veterans and the members of their families will be carried on along broader lines even than during the past year.

In short, the Red Cross has now had assurance of sustained public support which will permit of a stabilized, systematic program, bringing the greatest amount of good to the greatest number of people in each community, yeaer in and year out.

It was a noteworthy fact, in connection with the roll call that whatever the Red Cross workers came in most intimate contact with the people of a community, that community responded to the roll call appeal in the greatest ratio.

This was particularly true in the small isolated settlement, where the Red Cross chapter was the one organization for social service, and where the Red Cross nurse was not only nurse, but teacher, and sometimes spiritual adviser of the entire neighborhood.

Means were small in these little settlements but the response to the Red Cross appeal was more than generous.

Mrs. M. had arrived at the little staion in Vermont on a cold stormy evening and had hired an old man to drive her to her friend's farm up among the hills. The roads were in bad condition from the storm, and the ride was altogether a very uncomfortable one. "How much do I owe you?" she asked on arriving at her destination. "Well, ma'am," said the old man "my regular price is a dollar, but seein' as it's such a bad night and the goin' so terrible. I'll call it seventy-five cents."—The Christan Register (Boston.)

Early in October, while the business manager was away on sick leave, our long trusted bookkeeper and advertising manager, F. F. M. —, author of "The Socialization of Money"—departed with four thousand dollars. We have made every effort to apprehend him short of instituting proceedings, which would result in his being put in jail, and that we do not want to do.—From a page appeal for immediate financial assistance in the current Liberator (New York.)

Canada Would Aid U. S. In War With Japanese, London Editor Asserts

Toronto, Ont., Dec. 30.—Realization by the British government that Canada would have lined up with the United States in the event of a war between the United States and Japan was largely responsible for the scrapping of the Anglo-Japanese alliance, H. Wickman Steed, editor of the London Times, declared in an address today before the Toronto Canadian Club.

"If I read aright the feeling of British Columbia," he said, "that province would have been whole-heartedly for the American neighbor. The British Columbia feeling would have extended east as far as Manitoba at least. I think the whole of Canada would have stood together the moment it saw the issue.

"Realization of the position of Canada and that of the government of Australia helped to make the British government understand that if it wanted peace, as it did, it must so shape its policy at Washington as to secure peace and for that reason the Anglo-Japanese alliance had to go."

"Sugar Back to Terra Firma; Will The Others Come Down?

Sugar is Now Relatively Lower Than It Was Thirty Years Ago.

FROM thirty cents a pound to six cents a pound!

That is the startling drop that sugar has made since the war. It is the one conspicuous food staple that has gotten back to its pre-war level.

The economy of sugar as an energy producer is shown by the statement of Dr. W. D. Horne, well-known chemist. He says that the same amount of energy which we get from sugar at 6 cents a pound would cost 9 cents if obtained from rice, 14 cents from bread, 24 cents from butter or potatoes, 30 cents from bacon, 40 cents from milk, and 68 cents from beefsteak.

Thirty years ago, with sugar at five cents a pound and wages of common labor at a dollar a day of ten hours work, a man worked half an hour to earn the price of a pound of sugar. Today at $2.50 for eight hours work, and sugar six cents a pound, he need work but 12 minutes. Here is one food that is relatively cheaper than in the "good old days."

Our annual consumption of sugar has jumped from 8 pounds per capita in the days of our great grandparents to almost 90 pounds a year at the present time. At 6 cents a pound, the annual sugar bill is $5.40. If all foods were as cheap per unit of energy as sugar, a person could live a year with a total food bill of $34.38.

Think of the satisfaction of eating for a week and having to pay a "meal ticket" of only 66 cents!

Except during the extraordinary years of 1918, 1919, and 1920, the price of sugar has been steadily declining since the early '90s, in the face of rising prices on nearly every other article of food. The fact that the sugar refining industry has been carried on by large competing units has undoubtedly contributed to this result.

Despite the large quantity of sugar that the average American eats each year, he is decidedly outstripped by the Australian who consumes 129 pounds per annum to our 90. In Great Britain also the consumption is slightly larger, being 91 pounds per capita.

In view of the outstanding economy of sugar as the energy producer par excellence, is it advisable for the American family table to offer more sugar in its daily ration? Dr. Horne thinks it is. He says:

"We in the United States can probably increase our consumption of sugar 20 or 30 per cent with safety."

Herbert Hoover told a war congress that sugar is a binding material around which the entire cuisine revolves. Sugar is coming to be appreciated as the king of energy producers. According to Dr. Woods Hutchinson, sugar, not bread, is the staff of life.

Indianapolis, Ind. Dec. 30.—Mrs. Sarah Shank, a Democratic wife of Samuel Lewis Shank, Republican mayor-elect, has been appointed a member of the board of park commissioners by her husband.

"There are several Democratic women that I could have appointed, but I know Sarah's qualifications, and with her on the board there will be no question about the carrying out of pledges as to playgrounds for the kids," Mr. Shank said.

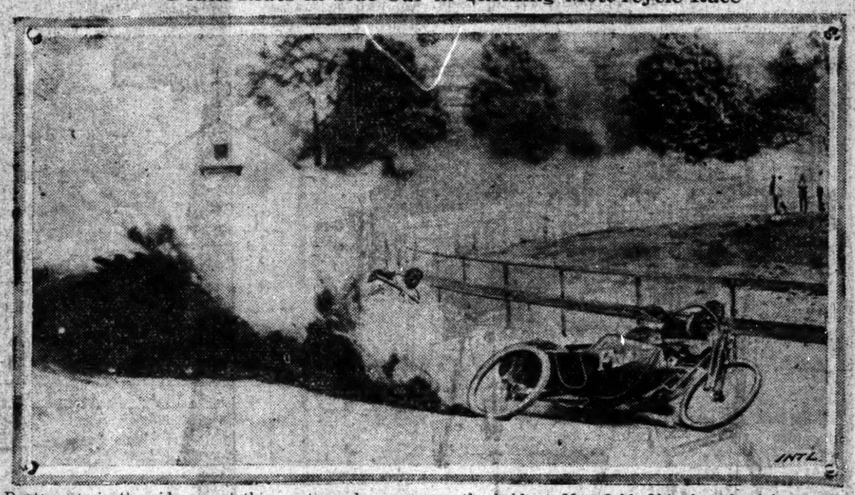
CYCLONE PLAYS HAVOC IN BUFFALO

A cyclone which recently blew through Buffalo, New York, left in its wake hundreds of thousands of dollars in property damage. Many dwellings were completely destroyed, and the storm, which came from Lake Erie, wrecked a number of vessels anchored in the harbor. The photograph on the left shows a house that was blown from its foundation and was stopped by two trees in its path. One of the strange features of the cyclone is shown in the illustration on the right. The house was blown from its foundation, but a picture hanging on the wall was left untouched.

Death Rides in Side Car in Thrilling Motorcycle Race



Death rode in the side car at this motorcycle race recently held at Mansfield, Ohio, but the driver, going at 112 miles an hour, spilled the Grim Gentleman out of the side car as he made the death-defying turn, as pictured. It is conceded that side-car cycle racing is about the most thrilling thing which the world of sport is engaged in. In making the turn it appears as if the outfit was due for an upset, but the turn was actually made in safety. Note the curious effect of the dust clouds and you can gain the idea of the speed the machine is travelling at.

Mrs. Jack De Saulles to Wed Again

NEW YORK—Mrs. Bianca Errazuriz DeSaulles is soon to marry again. The news of her new romance came over the cables from Santiago, Chile. Her fiance is Fernando Santa Cruz, a young engineer. No date has been set for the wedding. During the past four years Mrs. DeSaulles has been living in Chile with her family, which is wealthy. Two members of the family have been Presidents of Chile. Little Jack DeSaulles, whose father, John Longer DeSaulles, former football star and real estate broker, was shot so dramatically August 3, 1917, is with her. Mrs. DeSaulles won great sympathy at her trial, which led to an acquittal at Mineola, L. I., in the early Fall of 1917, by her beauty, her tragic demeanor and the story of her unhappy married life. She was sixteen when she married DeSaulles. Little Jack was the unwritten cause of his father's death by childish prattle to his mother of other women whom the dashing former football star had taught him to call "mother.' The little fellow told her that his father had told him that he must learn to love his mother's rivals as much as "Bumpy,' which was his mother's pet name. Pale as chiselled marble and impassive as a statue, Mrs. DeSaulles went through a sensational trial as though in a trance.

Visit Here Reveals Marriage

Mrs. Louis Debonnesset and her husband have arrived in New York from Paris to spend the holidays with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Steele, in their Long Island country home. Mr. and Mrs. Debonnesset were married more than a year ago, soon after the marriage of Mrs. Debonnesset and her first husband, Count Jean de la Greze, had been severed by the French courts. While it was known to their friends that the Countess and Mr. Debonnesset had been married, no public announcement of the fact had been previously made.
